OLD DUTCH HOUSE, BRISTOL. One of the best of the old houses of Bristol stands at the corner of Wine Street and High Street. According to tradition, the framework was made in Holland and brought over here. In the basement is one of the grand old vaulted cellars for which Bristol was famous. There are many of these, extending partially under the streets, so until 1820 heavy wagons were not allowed. Pepys speaks of seeing sledges used for transporting goods, many being drawn by dogs.
